Bloody Tank Battle Brings Havana Entry

Manuel Urrutia Is Named Provisional President By Castro

By LARRY ALLEN

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — Fidel Castro's rebels Friday night completed their victory sweep across Cuba from easternmost Oriente to westernmost Pinar del Rio province.

Rebels from outside Pinar del Rio and groups which have been battling government troops from the hills for the last six months have captured every army garrison in the heart of Cuba's tobacco-growing lands.

As word came of the rebel action in Pinar del Rio, a broadcast from Castro's headquarters in Oriente said he was leaving for Havana with armored forces and troops. The broadcast did not say when the rebel chief was starting on his westward journey to Havana but indications were he would be in the capital before the week ended.

A bloody tank battle ushered in the occupation of Havana by Castro's field troops.

Three-Hour Fight
From 40 to 50 men were believed killed in a three-hour fight between Castro forces and diehard Batistas within sight of the presidential palace as the city awaited the arrival of Manuel Urrutia, the man Castro has proclaimed provisional president.

Estimates of the wounded ranged up to 430. Batistas groups numbering several hundred were apparently crushed. But the action apparently ended even more vicious fighting.

Speaking not of this action but of a purported deal with Maj. Gen. Eulogio Cantillo of Batista's army Castro charged in a broadcast from Santiago that he had been betrayed in his plan to take over Havana peacefully.

Riot-scarred Havana tensely awaited the arrival of both the 32-year-old rebel leader and Urrutia, a judge banished by the fallen President Fulgencio Batista from eastern Cuba. They had been expected at any hour, but Castro's broadcast declaration indicated the possibility of a serious hitch.

Shooting Breaks Out
The shooting centered around a business block called the Manzana de Gomez. It broke out shortly before noon.

Castro's followers rolled tanks, armored cars and other equipment from Camp Columbia, once Batista's firmest military stronghold, to battle armed followers of the fallen dictator. Gunshots hammered through the streets until about 3 p.m.

Though there was talk of 40 to 50 dead and a total 500 casualties, informed sources emphasized that no accurate count was possible under the conditions prevailing.

After the rebel forces disposed of the bulk of their opponents, they tangled with some of the toughest, most ruthless gunfighters among Batista's followers, members of a private army called the Tigers.

The Tigers have numbered 200 to 300. They were followers of Sen. Rolando Masferrer, a pro-Batista publisher who has fled Havana by yacht, perhaps for Florida. They specialized in killing enemies of the Batista regime and plundering private property of rebel sympathizers.

How many lived through the action is undetermined.

Castro's broadcast declaration from Santiago, his provisional capital, was unexpected. There were signs, within the ranks of various revolutionary organizations who have backed Batista, that something had gone wrong. It appeared obvious there were disagreements over how and who should take power.

"Now is when the revolution starts," Castro said.

The rebel chieftain said he had

East German Reds Reject West Stand

Insist Allies Leave Berlin As Demanded; Situation Untenable

BERLIN (UPI) — The East German Communists rejected the West's status quo stand on Berlin Friday and insisted the Western Allies leave the city as demanded by Russia.

The official Communist Party newspaper Neues Deutschland said the present situation in West Berlin is "untenable." It warned anew that the Communist bloc will not tolerate the continued existence of the isolated Western outpost as an anti-Communist section.

The East Germans rejected the same "old record" the Western notes handed to the Kremlin on Wednesday. They said the notes contain nothing new.

Express Determination

The notes delivered by the United States, Britain and France expressed Western determination to stay in Berlin despite Soviet threats to make the city a demilitarized "free city" and turn access routes over to the East German Communists. The notes offered to discuss the Berlin crisis in the framework of a larger German settlement and European security.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's West German government sent off a reply Friday to the Kremlin's proposals to end four-power occupation of Berlin. Hans Kroll, West German ambassador to Moscow, was expected to hand the note to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko by Monday. He also will deliver a memorandum on the Berlin crisis.

Notes Similar

West German sources in Bonn said the note was similar to the ones sent to the Kremlin by the United States, Britain and France. It was said to reject sharply Russia's proposal to turn Berlin into a demilitarized city.

The Bonn sources pointed out, however, that West Germany's responsibility for the city isolated 110 miles inside the Soviet zone is different from that of the three Western Allies. They pointed out that responsibility of the three Allies is mainly juristic, while Bonn's responsibility is political, since Berlin is a part of Germany.

Atlas To Make Passage Visible To Most Of U.S.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The Atlas satellite will make passages Monday visible to most of the United States, the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory said today.

The passages in the morning twilight will appear to the south or southeast to most observers. The 4½-ton American moon should be visible on two passages Monday to early-risers in New York, Boston and most of the east coast.

The satellite crosses over or near the southern part of the nation traveling in a general west to east direction. It has been visible for the past few days in the morning twilight.

The Smithsonian computed these passages, all Eastern Standard Time. The first time is when the Atlas comes out of earth shadow into sunlight. The second time is when the moonlet has traveled so far east it is lost in the brightness of dawn.

President Approves New 49-Star U.S. Flag Design

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UPI) — President Eisenhower gave final approval Friday to a new 49-star flag design in preparation for Saturday's White House ceremony admitting Alaska to the Union.

Army Quartermaster Corps designers flew to the Eisenhower farm by helicopter and showed the President several designs, including one which was favored by a presidential advisory committee on the new flag.

After getting Eisenhower's final approval, the designers flew back to Washington to get the new flag ready for its first public display. This will come at the White House Saturday during the ceremony in which the President will sign a proclamation making Alaska the 49th state.

The flag, which has been shrouded in secrecy, will go into general use July 4. The only thing White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty would tell reporters was that the flag would be red, white and blue and have 49 stars.

The President planned to fly to the White House by helicopter at about 8:15 a.m. e.s.t. Saturday. He will sign the Alaska statehood proclamation and an Executive order setting the design for the new flag at noon in the White House Cabinet Room.

Eisenhower then will fly back to Gettysburg for the rest of the week end and return to Washington Monday morning to make final preparations for the opening of the heavily Democratic 28th Congress on Wednesday.

Soviet Deputy Premier May Arrive In U.S. On Sunday

Secrecy Still Shrouds Visit Of Mikoyan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet First Dep. Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan is expected to arrive in New York City early Sunday aboard a Scandinavian Airlines System plane.

This was one of several pieces of news that slipped out Friday from behind an official curtain of secrecy.

Authoritative sources said Mikoyan will head a party of six, including his son, Sergo Anastasovich Mikoyan, about 35.

The elder Mikoyan, the Soviet Union's trade expert and second at the Kremlin only to Premier Nikita Khrushchev, is reported to have 10 American cities on his tentative itinerary.

They include Washington, D.C., New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Cleveland, Chicago, Detroit, Dallas, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Security maneuvers have blanketed Mikoyan's visit. The people in the Soviet Union have never been told he is coming to the United States. The State Department refers all questions to the Soviet Embassy, and the Soviet Embassy isn't talking.

The Soviets appeared to be guided by reasons of personal security. They may be worried about possible anti-Soviet demonstrations by former Hungarian Freedom Fighters and other refugees from communism.

In this connection, Rep. Walter H. Judd (R-Minn.) declined to attend a dinner in honor of Mikoyan, to be given here Monday night by Eric Johnston, motion picture industry leader.

Judd raised the question: "Why not give a dinner for the martyrs of Hungary?"

In all the secrecy, it was still learned on good authority that, unless plans are belatedly changed, the Mikoyan party will be aboard Scandinavian Airlines system Flight 921 arriving at 6:30 a.m. EST at New York's Idlewild International Terminal. The flight is from Copenhagen, Denmark.

These sources said the party will come to Washington almost immediately, either by train, plane or automobile.

One Soviet official who will accompany Mikoyan, Vladimir Burdin of the Soviet Foreign Ministry, was reported already in New York.

Mikoyan's party thus will include two representatives of the Soviet Trade Ministry, two from the Foreign Ministry and one security man.

Soviet informants said Mikoyan would travel about the United States by train and plane, using commercial transportation, and flying only on long trips. The Soviet Embassy was understood to be making transportation arrangements directly, instead of through the State Department.

Mikoyan was reported ready to spend four or five days in Washington and another 10 or 12 days on tour. However, it was said he had not yet finally approved a proposed itinerary.

A nonholiday survey of traffic deaths conducted by The Associated Press for the 102 hours from 6 p.m. Wednesday Dec. 10 to midnight Dec. 14 showed 341 fatalities. The survey was for comparative purposes.

The record number of traffic deaths for any holiday period was 706 during the four-day Christmas weekend of 1956.

Two Boys Set Brush Fires

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Two small boys playing with matches set one of two New Year's Eve brush fires that burned a total of 82 homes and forced thousands to flee, the Los Angeles Fire Department disclosed Friday.

The youngsters, only 6 and 8 years old, ignited the Benedict Canyon — Beverly Glen fire which threatened the homes of celebrities as Elizabeth Taylor, Doris Duke and Marion Davies. One home, valued at $150,000, was destroyed in the blaze only three miles from Beverly Hills.

Capt. R. G. McNeil declined to give additional details or names. Investigators earlier said someone deliberately set the Topanga Canyon fire, 20 miles west of here which burned 81 homes and destroyed 5,000 acres of brush and watershed. The arson squad was on guard because of several fires in the same area, but failed to apprehend the person, or persons, setting the Topanga fire, according to Chief Keith Klingler.

Castro Supporters Leave

Three men among a group of Castro supporters which left by plane yesterday for Havana are shown at Idlewild airport in New York before boarding aircraft. They are Capt. Eduardo Alvarez Rueda; Ladislao Guerra, and Andriano Cuervo Navarro. Rueda formerly was in Cuban national police force, Guerra is a lawyer-captain in the rebel force, and Navarro is former mayor inspector of national police.

Traffic Deaths Frequency Has Slowed Slightly

By The Associated Press

Traffic	179

The frequency of traffic deaths over the long New Year's holiday slowed slightly Friday.

The rate of fatalities from motor vehicle accidents dropped to slightly more than three an hour near the halfway mark of the four-day weekend. During the first 44 hours of the 102-hour holiday the rate had been better than four each hour.

The early pace of deaths threatened to exceed the record 409 fatalities for a similar 102-hour New Year's weekend, set in 1956-57. The National Safety Council in a preliminary calculation, estimated 390 lives would be lost in traffic accidents during the present holiday.

In addition to the highway slaughter, there were numerous deaths resulting from fires and miscellaneous accidents.

Rain and snow in New England and patches of snow from the Great Lakes into Pennsylvania made for hazardous driving conditions in the eastern half of the country. There were icy conditions in the Midwest and snow fell from the Pacific Northwest across the Upper Mississippi Valley.

The New Year's traffic death rate usually is lower than that for the Christmas weekend. During last week's 102-hour Christmas holiday 594 traffic deaths were recorded. The reason is that there is less travel during the New Year's holiday.

A nonholiday survey of traffic deaths conducted by The Associated Press for the 102 hours from 6 p.m. Wednesday Dec. 10 to midnight Dec. 14 showed 341 fatalities. The survey was for comparative purposes.

The record number of traffic deaths for any holiday period was 706 during the four-day Christmas weekend of 1956.

Dulles To Leave For Canada Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles plans to return to Washington Saturday night after a two-week vacation in Jamaica. He will take off again Monday for Canada.

Dulles went to Jamaica after attending the Atlantic Pact ministerial meeting at Paris. He wanted to rest, after suffering an inflammation of the colon just prior to his Paris trip.

Young Cuba Rebels Threaten Newsmen

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — Trigger-happy young Cuban rebels Friday stormed and shot their way into the Havana Post building and, at gunpoint, threatened to kill three Associated Press newsmen.

The rebel gunmen, apparently hunting for hidden arms, hammered away at the building with submachine gun, rifle and pistol fire for 15 minutes. Then they smashed through its front door and raced to the second floor.

They kicked open the door of the AP bureau and leveled their weapons at George Kaufman, Havana chief of bureau; correspondent Larry Allen; and Harold Valentine, photographer from the Miami bureau.

The rebel gunmen roughly pushed the three about and searched them for weapons. All protested they were Americans and never had any weapons.

The rebels then herded the three into the adjoining composing room of the English-language Havana Post, shouting excitedly.

One of the raiders declared he had found a pistol on the Post premises and all turned their guns at the newsmen, threatening to fire.

Kaufman and Allen had spent some time flat on the office floor, trying to write news and keep up with the teletype dispatches while bullets peppered about.

They were joined by Valentine, who had been racing about looking for a strategic spot in the building to take pictures of the shooting in the streets.

Allen gave this account of the developments: "The rebels commanded all of us to be quiet, saying that if we weren't we would be killed on the spot."

"After searching the AP photographic darkroom and smashing through the Post composing room, the rebels pushed all of us down the stairway and into the street, saying we had to go to jail."

The Royal Air Force expert, flight Lt. James Waters, 38, felt confident he could defuse the menace, the largest unexploded bomb ever found in Germany. His wife was more uneasy. She said "I've been going through hell."

Waters will go after the huge "Tallboy" bomb next week in the sticky mud of the Sorpe Reservoir where the bomb was uncovered, said.

"In the street, the exultant rebels, brandishing their weapons and shouting, were cheered by scores of Cubans standing in doorways or on balconies of their homes."

"All of us and the Havana Post janitor were forced into Kaufman's car for a drive between the lines of wildly celebrating rebels to the 4th Precinct police station."

"There the rebels ordered us out of the car and brushed past a cluster of 50 policemen who stood helplessly. In the station the rebels tried to push us into a cell. We all protested firmly to the police commandant and to the rebel leader."

"Finally, after 15 minutes of touch-and-go argument, the rebels ordered us back into Kaufman's car. A carload of them escorted us back to the Post building."

Motorists Get Unique Greetings

PARIS (UPI) — Paris motorists who broke parking regulations on Thursday found New Year's greetings from police instead of tickets on windshields. A card said: "In wishing you a Happy New Year, the prefect of police asks you in the future . . . to respect the traffic laws . . . In observance of the first of the year, the police are not enforcing the regulations too strictly today."

Best Marksman

CASTELNUOVO D. VERONA, Italy (UPI) — Eighty-seven-year-old Giuseppe Zenati Friday was granted a free hunting license for the 1959 season as the best marksman in the district. Zenati proved the best shot out of 132 license holders in this town in northern Italy.

Just before Christmas, he gained experience through defusing 370 bombs and more than 1,000 incendiaries during the last five years, as a means of penetrating any blockade.

The bomb is one of several blockades. "Tallboys" dropped by the RAF in 1944 on the Sorpe Dam. The discovered bomb and one other raised the possibility the East failed to hit the target and landed in the water above the dam. The second "Tallboy" is presumed to be buried in the area.

Waters said his biggest worry was that water might have seeped into the bomb's rusty shell. The "Tallboy" was so designed that if certain chemicals inside were disturbed, the bomb would go off, he said.

Tass Reports Final Stage Is On Course

Estimated To Have Hit 68,354 Miles; Signals Received

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union fired a multistage rocket toward the moon Friday. An announcement early Saturday said the final stage is on target with the speed required to put it in the vicinity of the moon early Sunday.

The Tass announcement said this artificial comet was to have been created at 3:57 a.m. (7:57 p.m. Friday EST), and should have been visible two to five minutes in the constellation of Virgo.

The nose cone carries the Soviet flag, the announcement said, and in addition to many instruments the rocket carries special equipment designed to create the sodium cloud of an artificial comet. This is to permit it to be observed and photographed.

Moscow radio called it "the first successful interplanetary flight" almost before the multistage rocket left the earth's atmosphere.

7 Miles Per Second

It said the super-Sputnik was heading moonward at 11.2 kilometers (7 miles) per second.

A dramatic log tracking the rocket out of Soviet Russia flashed abroad over the Moscow wave-length. It said the rocket had flashed eastward across the borders of Soviet Russia, had climbed across the Hawaiian Islands and was moving rapidly away from the earth over the Pacific Ocean.

Moscow estimated the rocket would have achieved a height of 68,354 miles from earth by shortly after midnight.

It was the first major space accomplishment announced by the Soviet Union since the launching of Sputnik III on May 15, 1958.

Soviet radio listeners heard signals from the moon rocket broadcast by Moscow radio. The home service announcer said:

"A continuous high-pitched sound came on. The announcer said this was the first type of signal."

"Signals of the second type are now coming in," the announcer went on. Then came a fairly high-pitched note followed by another note about an octave higher. The two sounds were quickly repeated.

The over-all weight of the new cosmic rocket was not mentioned. Tass said the "last stage" weighed 1,472 kilograms (3,245 lbs.) without the fuel and was equipped with a special container inside of which were various measuring apparatus. The weight of the equipment was given as about 796½ lbs.

The rocket carries a picture of the hammer and sickle into the far reaches of outer space and a sign saying: "U.S.S.R., January 1959."

Jam Network Found In Berlin

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American intelligence agents in Berlin have discovered a network of Russian radar and radio jamming equipment that could virtually wreck any new Allied airlift. Air Force sources said Friday.

The network surrounds the old German capital. It could be used to interfere with control tower operations and other navigational aids in event the Allies were forced to operate another airlift to save Berlin.

The Air Force officials said even if the jamming could be offset by counter-measures, there is serious doubt whether an air lift alone could rescue Berlin as it did in 1948-49. For one thing, they said cargo demands would be 2½ times greater.

At the same time, a spokesman for the Joint Chiefs of Staff indicated the United States would favor armed ground "convoys" as a means of penetrating any blockade.

The West's rejection Wednesday of the Soviet "free city" proposal discovered the possibility the East failed to hit the target and landed in the water above the dam. The second "Tallboy" is presumed to be buried in the area.

Waters said his biggest worry was that water might have seeped into the bomb's rusty shell. The "Tallboy" was so designed that if certain chemicals inside were disturbed, the bomb would go off, he said.

Cuba Can Get Honest Regime From Castro

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — Young Fidel Castro, riding into power on an enormous wave of personal popularity, faces a golden opportunity to give Cuba what it has long craved — a free and honest constitutional government.

First he must re-establish order. Abuses and excesses must be expected in any revolutionary situation, but at the moment nobody is safe here.

Once order is restored out of the current upheaval, Castro will be in a position to proceed. And those who have had contact with him say he has the ability and intelligence to get the job under way.

Castro's persistent July 26th revolutionary moment never gave up the fight even when reduced to a handful of ragged guerrilla fighters in the fastnesses of the Sierra Maestra Mountains. It performed an astonishing feat. It rose from the ashes of defeat to resounding victory. Friday its forces moving into Havana were jubilantly hailed as liberators.

Sunday's mobs were selective in their targets. They ransacked gaudy gambling establishments which provided the glitter of Havana. They looted the rooms of many Cuban millionaires who grew rich on political corruption.

The mobs turned on parking meters and battered them with sledges. They knew the meters were installed by Batista relatives who were suspected of reaping rich profits from them.

They smashed at establishments displaying luxuries meant for the rich and far out of reach of the poor.

Throughout Batista's reign graft and corruption have been on a fabulous scale. Sophisticated Cubans would laugh when American courts prosecuted offenders for embezzling thousands. In Cuba it wasn't considered stealing until the loot got into the millions.

Bloody Tank

made a deal with Gen. Cantillo to engineer the handing over of Cuba's government from Batista Wednesday.

Castro accused Cantillo, who took over as chief of staff after Batista's departure, of a lack of good faith. He said the agreement misfired because Batista and his army chiefs fled the country before dawn on New Year's Day.

Castro said that he had intended that his native city of Santiago should be the provisional capital, and that while it was, the chief of army and navy would be there.

He was surprised, he added, when he learned that he had been expected in Havana at 2 p.m. New Year's Day. He said that was not what he had planned.

Cantillo Still Chief

Cantillo apparently still is chief of Cuba's armed forces under provisional President Carlos Piedra. A short-lived military junta appointed Piedra after Batista decided to flee, but he never took the oath of office.

Castro said disparagingly that he would take care of "Old Piedra" and that Piedra would resign when rebels move into Havana if he did not do so before they got there.

Castro said developments had proven that the departure of Batista merely represented a coup d'etat by Batista supporters to take over the government.

During the afternoon thousands of wildly cheering rebel partisans converged in the Central Park hoping and expecting that both Urrutia and Castro would show up and the former promptly be sworn in as provisional president.

Hundreds of American tourists there have been ministers of government here who have received salaries in the neighborhood of $10,000 a year and have banked millions of dollars in U.S. banks.

These are things the Cuban public knew and brooded about. This is an informed public despite Batista's tight censorship. Cuba is about 60 per cent literate and has had a higher standard than most Latin-American countries.

Blonde Receives Suspended Term In Plot To Kill

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (UPI) — Pretty Barbara Massey pleaded guilty Friday to a "hire-to-kill" plot against the wife of a handsome state trooper whom she loved.

A judge hearing her defense that she was "mentally and emotionally confused," refused to send her to prison. He gave her a 12-months suspended sentence, and put the 22-year-old former Wake Forest College coed on strict probation.

Her attempt to hire someone to kill Mrs. Frances Smith of Greensboro, N. C., collapsed when an informant tipped police and Charlotte Detective Richard S. Ruth posed as the man who would do murder for money. Ruth testified Miss Massey gave him $500 and told him to "arrange a fatal accident" for Mrs. Smith, wife of a tall, good looking state highway patrolman Ransom Smith of Greensboro.

The trooper and Miss Massey met while she was observing courtroom procedure in connection with her law school studies. They had seen each other several times, but the relationship had been broken off.

Ruth testified Miss Massey told him she wanted Mrs. Smith dead because "just for your information I love the guy."

A psychiatric report entered as evidence indicated Miss Massey fell in love with Smith as a "father-image." Her father, a former Greensboro policeman, was convicted of theft in 1948 and was found dead on a roadside four years ago.

Sentence was passed in a packed recorder's courtroom after defense Atty. Welch Jordan told Judge Howard Arbuckle that "she is now on the road to recovery."

Tanker's Bow Breaks Loose

OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP) — The bow of the wrecked tanker African Queen has broken loose from the shoal on which it was resting, complicating salvage operations.

The tanker went aground early Tuesday and broke in half from the pounding of heavy seas. All 47 crew members were rescued by helicopters.

Salvage operations were under way Friday by Merritt-Chapman and Scott Salvage Co. of New York, but strong seas were slowing work by its tug, Curb.

If the bow continues to float near the shipping lanes off this seaside resort, it could be a menace to navigation.

Tass Reports

said the rocket will reach the vicinity of the moon at approximately 7 a.m. Moscow time Sunday (11 p.m. Saturday EST).

The Soviet announcement immediately raised speculation that Soviet science has reached a stage at which a man could be successfully launched into orbit around the moon. The size of the final stage was regarded as more than adequate for a man to eat, breathe comfortably and even stretch his legs.

This was the Soviet's first announced attempt to reach the moon, although three satellites have been successfully shot around the earth. With the satellites, the Soviets announced only the weight of the payloads—that is the weight of instruments without their carrier rocket.

They departed from precedent with the moon shot by disclosing the weight of the entire final stage. The final stage is about one-third the weight of the 4½-ton American Atlas satellite now circling the earth. But Moscow has claimed the Atlas is inferior in weight to each of its own globe-girdling satellites.

Used Extra Stage
Moscow did not disclose how many stages the moon shot contained.

Commenting on this, in London, the science correspondent of the British Press Assn. wrote:

"It is fair to assume that what they have done has been to put an extra stage on their Sputnik launching rocket to get it to reach what they describe as 'the second cosmic speed'—the speed which would take a space ship into a parabolic orbit away from the earth toward the planet."

The United States has made four unsuccessful bids to fire a space probe to, or beyond the moon.

The last attempt was Dec. 7, when the Army's gold-plated Pioneer III plunged to a fiery death over Timbuktu, Africa, after it had been tracked to a height of 66,651 miles.

The first three shots were handled by the Air Force.

The first moon rocket exploded 77 seconds after it took off from Cape Canaveral, Fla., on Aug. 17. This shot was never named.

The second—first in the Pioneer series—was fired Oct. 11. The Air Force estimated at first that it roared 79,000 miles into space before falling back earthward, but it later changed the figure to 71,200 miles.

Pioneer II, the third Air Force moon rocket, crashed to earth after traveling 7,500 miles from its Cape Canaveral launching pad Nov. 8. A third-stage rocket failed to fire.

State Bar Asked To Probe Police Improprieties

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Gov. McKeldin, moving for a "final closing of the matter," Friday asked the Maryland State Bar Assn. to investigate alleged improprieties in the State Police Department.

Circuit Judge John B. Gray of Prince Frederick, president of the association, has agreed to name the study group. He said he probably will act as soon as he receives the governor's letter.

McKeldin asked for the committee after receiving a report from Col. Elmer F. Munshower, superintendent of State Police, regarding allegations made by the Criminal Justice Commission about operation of the department.

The governor said Munshower "is convinced that most, if not all, of the implications listed by Gordon M. Allen, president of the commissions are without sound basis." But he said the superintendent "urged me to seek a final closing of the matter through placing it in the hands of an impartial commission."

In his letter to Judge Gray, McKeldin said he has always felt the superintendent of State Police "is quite capable of handling the affairs of his department and correcting any irregularities that might be presented to him."

But he said Munshower believes that no statement or action by him would end the current discussions.

"The very vagueness with which the implications have thus far been presented makes it mandatory, I believe, that some independent group pass judgment on them," McKeldin said.

The commission alleged four areas of State Police improprieties. These were reduction of cash collateral for some traffic violators, violation of regulations concerning firearms, use of department vehicles for unofficial transportation and violation of regulations forbidding alcoholic beverages on department property.

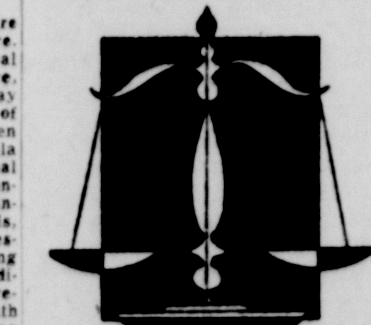

McKeldin said he asked Judge Gray to appoint a committee "to study the affair and to conduct such investigation into any or all of the implications as the committee members may find indicated by the evidence."

He pledged the committee the cooperation of his administration, the State Police Department and the law department, and he promised funds from the governor's office for expenses.

"If there is any improper practice of the State Police which is being ignored or escaping the attention of the superintendent and his executive staff, I want to know about it, and I am sure that Colonel Munshower wants to know about it," McKeldin said.

Widow To Get Hearing Monday In Man's Death

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — Mrs. Margaret Lucille D'Ambrosio will be given a preliminary hearing Monday in Police Court on a charge of killing her husband, who police at first thought committed suicide.

The 29-year-old widow is expected to be released Monday from City Hospital where she is being treated for a bullet wound in the chest. She told police she was shot by a strange man in her Dundalk home early Saturday, but police said the would was self-inflicted.

Mrs. D'Ambrosio is charged with the murder of 32-year-old Michael D'Ambrosio, an employee of the Martin Co. He was found fatally shot in his flaming car on a Dundalk lovers lane.

An assistant medical examiner originally listed it as suicide, but county detectives pressed an investigation and formally charged Mrs. D'Ambrosio New Year's eve. County Police Chief Gilbert L. Deyle said the shooting of the man apparently took place some distance from where the body was found, and that the wounded man had been driven to the spot.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	John	6	1-14
Monday	John	6	22-35
Tuesday	I Corinthians	10	16-17
Wednesday	I Corinthians	11	23-28
Thursday	II Corinthians	9	10-15
Friday	Matthew	26	26
Saturday	Acts	2	41-47

Have you tried to satisfy your appetite with a bit of candy or a hurried snack? The keen edge of hunger may leave—but only temporarily.

There is another hunger innate in each of us. It is a spiritual hunger, our desire to have protection and help from God. Sometimes we do not really recognize this need. We feel only a restlessness, a longing for something better, an unexplained loneliness.

We often try to satisfy this mysterious hunger with the sweets of pleasure, to cover it up with the hurry of many activities. But it can never be really satisfied until we know God as our Heavenly Father, His Son as our Saviour.

Jesus Christ said, "I am the bread of life; he that cometh to me shall never hunger."

In the Church we find this Christ who offers us the true bread from heaven, the bread which alone satisfies our spiritual hunger.

W.Va. Teachers Want Regular Pay Day Plan

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The West Virginia Education Assn. will ask the 54th Legislature to approve a system of regular pay days for West Virginia's 17,000 public school teachers, it was announced Friday.

Under the proposal approved by the association's delegates' assembly, the counties would be given a choice of dividing the annual salary of teachers into no fewer than nine nor more than 12 monthly installments.

The association pointed out that under the present system of distributing paychecks, Christmas often falls six weeks between checks. Teachers now are paid under the "day-labor system" which provides that checks be issued after each 20-school day period, without regard to day of week or month.

The association also will ask the Legislature to spell out minimum annual salaries for state college teachers. The association will propose a minimum of $4,200 for instructors, $5,100 for assistant professors, $6,000 for associate professors and $7,500 for full professors. In addition the WVEA will ask for experience increments ranging from $100 to $250.

Any man or woman in Australia who has a right to vote is required by law to do so.

CUF Drive Chairman Is Praised

Lewis J. Ort, president of the County United Fund, yesterday thanked Salvation Army Captain Daniel K. Biggs for his outstanding performance as general chairman of the 1958 CUF drive.

Noting that the budgets of the 31 CUF agencies will be met for the coming year, Mr. Ort added, "All of the thousands who gave to this worthy cause have my personal thanks, but the real thanksgiving comes from the hearts of our less fortunate neighbors who benefit from this fine display of generosity."

The Executive Committee at its December meeting acknowledged efforts of Captain Biggs and his "army" of workers who gave their time and resources to bring to a successful close the second County United Fund campaign.

"The hundreds of devoted workers in this year's campaign who gave their time, talents and energy, as well as their money, are the true community leaders of the area," Mr. Ort concluded. "Theirs is the leadership of loyal service to the unfortunate, and their greatest reward is the satisfaction of a job well done."

Local Homes Broken Into

Local police are investigating the breaking and entering of two homes in Johnson Heights over New Year's.

Detective Lt. James E. Van said John Stewart, 26 Wempe Drive, and James E. Day, 709 Montgomery Avenue, reported their homes were entered.

Stewart informed police that the intruder made off with $300 in bills and an unknown amount of 50 cent pieces. The intruder at the Day home stole $11 in cash.

Lt. Van said the intruder entered the Stewart home by pushing out a key on the side door, and then using another key to open the lock.

Lt. Van said the $300 was in 20, 10 and one dollar bills.

Police said the intruder at the Day residence entered by a cellar window, and then used saws to cut an eight-inch hole in a kitchen door.

Police believe the operation is well organized since the intruder seems to be after money only and generally leaves other items in place.

$5,500 Collected In County Taxes

About $5,500 more in state and county real estate taxes was collected yesterday at the office of Tax Collector J. Wallace Close at the Court House as a number of last-minute taxpayers sought to avoid paying additional charges.

That brought collections this week to approximately $30,000. Wednesday was the big day when $17,000 was received.

Those belated taxpayers who did pay on or before yesterday saved the 50-cent charge for an additional bill. The interest on county taxes now moves up from two to two-and-one-half per cent and on state taxes from one-and-one-half per cent to two per cent.

The first of the week, Mr. Close will begin delivering next tax bills in person. They will serve as the 60-day notice that the property involved is liable to be sold for delinquent taxes.

The group, including teachers, artists, engineers and members of other professions, was the third to be brought into the United States by the Aid Refugee Chinese Intellectuals, Inc.

Fleeing Chinese Arrive In California

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Seventy-seven Chinese, fleeing from communism, arrived from Hong Kong Friday in a chartered plane.

The judge told the young lawyer he had betrayed his "family, friends and profession."

"You cannot foist off on other people the responsibility for acts you have committed," he said.

He directed that two-year sentences on each conviction be served concurrently.

Lawyer Given Two-Year Term

BALTIMORE (AP)—Melvin R. Blacker, lawyer and former State official convicted on forgery charges, was sentenced Friday to two years in the Maryland Penitentiary.

The 34-year-old attorney now practicing in Alexandria, Va., was sentenced in Criminal Court by Judge Reuben Oppenheimer after saying he hoped "what has happened to me has not been in vain and will not happen to others."

Blacker was found guilty on two charges, one involving the signing of his father-in-law's name to a $44,000 note and the other the forgery of a $15,000 check. Blacker admitted the signatures but insisted his troubles stemmed from his dealings with a Baltimore money lender.

A former magistrate and member of the old State Industrial Accident Commission, Blacker had filed a motion for a new trial after his conviction Dec. 8. He dropped the move before the court ruled on it.

The judge told the young lawyer he had betrayed his "family, friends and profession."

"You cannot foist off on other people the responsibility for acts you have committed," he said.

He directed that two-year sentences on each conviction be served concurrently.

Dollar volume of sales was down 36 per cent from the preceding week, however, but for the four weeks ended Dec. 27 were up 9 per cent over the comparable 1957 period.

Through Jan. 1-Dec. 27 sales were 2 per cent over the like period of 1957.

The district covers Virginia, West Virginia, the Carolinas, Maryland and the District of Columbia.

World Naval Revolution

Russia is now the world's second naval power. The United States is still first by a substantial margin, but its over-all technological lead over the USSR is diminishing.

There is reason to believe that Russia is now hard at work on producing more modern submarines, cruisers and destroyers capable of launching guided missiles, and nuclear-powered vessels.

This information comes from "Jane's Fighting Ships," the latest edition of which is just off the press. Britain, it notes, now lags behind the world's two super powers in naval strength, and Japan, whose navy before World War II was almost on a par with those of Britain and the United States, is beginning a comeback.

This authoritative publication, in existence for more than 60 years, sees a naval revolution under way, led by America. American willingness to spend heavily developing and testing nuclear-powered submarines like Nautilus, Skate and Seawolf, is bringing about vast changes.

Submarines are replacing the aircraft carrier (which replaced the battleship) as the capital ships of the navies that have the latest types. Another war would not see submarines limited to the defensive job of cutting an enemy's line of supply. They would have a major offensive role in launching missiles. They would also be able to fight underwater battles with enemy submarines.

Russia is one of the few nations that will not give naval data to "Jane's Fighting Ships." The new edition, however, estimates that Russia now has 500 subs, the U. S. 200. Russia has been engaging in increased submarine activity in the Atlantic recently, the publication reports. And along America's Atlantic seaboard, too.

The world is accustomed to thinking of Russia as a land power, with the world's largest army and no navy to speak of. In the past, what fleet Russia had was designed for use in interior waters—the Baltic, the Black Sea, possibly the Mediterranean. Now she is becoming a major sea power as well.

Convertibility

Europe seems to be coming to its senses economically and although such matters are always difficult to work out, once the European countries get on the right track again, they will find the answer to many fiscal problems.

The last time they tried to solve these particular problems by concerted action was in 1933 at the London Economic Conference which was an effort to save Europe from many of the disasters that have occurred since then. That Conference, it will be recalled, was torpedoed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt who went off on a ship with Henry Morgenthau, Jr., and became incommunicado when the President was most needed. It is said that he and Henry Morgenthau, Jr., flipped coins to form decisions over the gold content of the dollar, or so Morgenthau reported subsequently.

At any rate, here we are 25 years and two wars later and the Europeans have at long last solved one of their principal economic questions themselves, namely, convertibility. There is a long word for a simple process: if you live in London and have pounds and you want to buy a case of wine in Paris, your problem is to get francs. Up to now, that presented quite a problem because the British Treasury had to decide whether and when you could use your pounds for that purpose and the French government would have to decide whether it wanted more pounds or would prefer for you to change your pounds into dollars first and buy the case of wine using dollars.

Lack of convertibility made trade difficult in every case. The real trouble was that each country wanted dollars, the one absolutely stable currency in foreign exchange. And the reason that the American dollar was stable was not, as some think, because our government was sound, which it has not been for many years, but because we possessed a gold supply which served to give our dollars a 25 per cent guarantee, which was better than that of any other money.

Over the years, other nations have accumulated gold and most of that which is in the United States is earmarked for foreign countries and can be used by them to support their currencies. Furthermore, France ought to possess between two and three billion dollars of gold, mostly held privately and some in numbered accounts in Swiss and Tangier banks. It is generally accepted that de Gaulle will find a way to bring this gold out of hiding, even if the most drastic means must be employed. If so, then the "heavy franc" which de Gaulle is expected to institute will be a gold supported franc and its existence may do much to re-establish sound currencies among the nations of Western Europe. It will serve to lead the way.

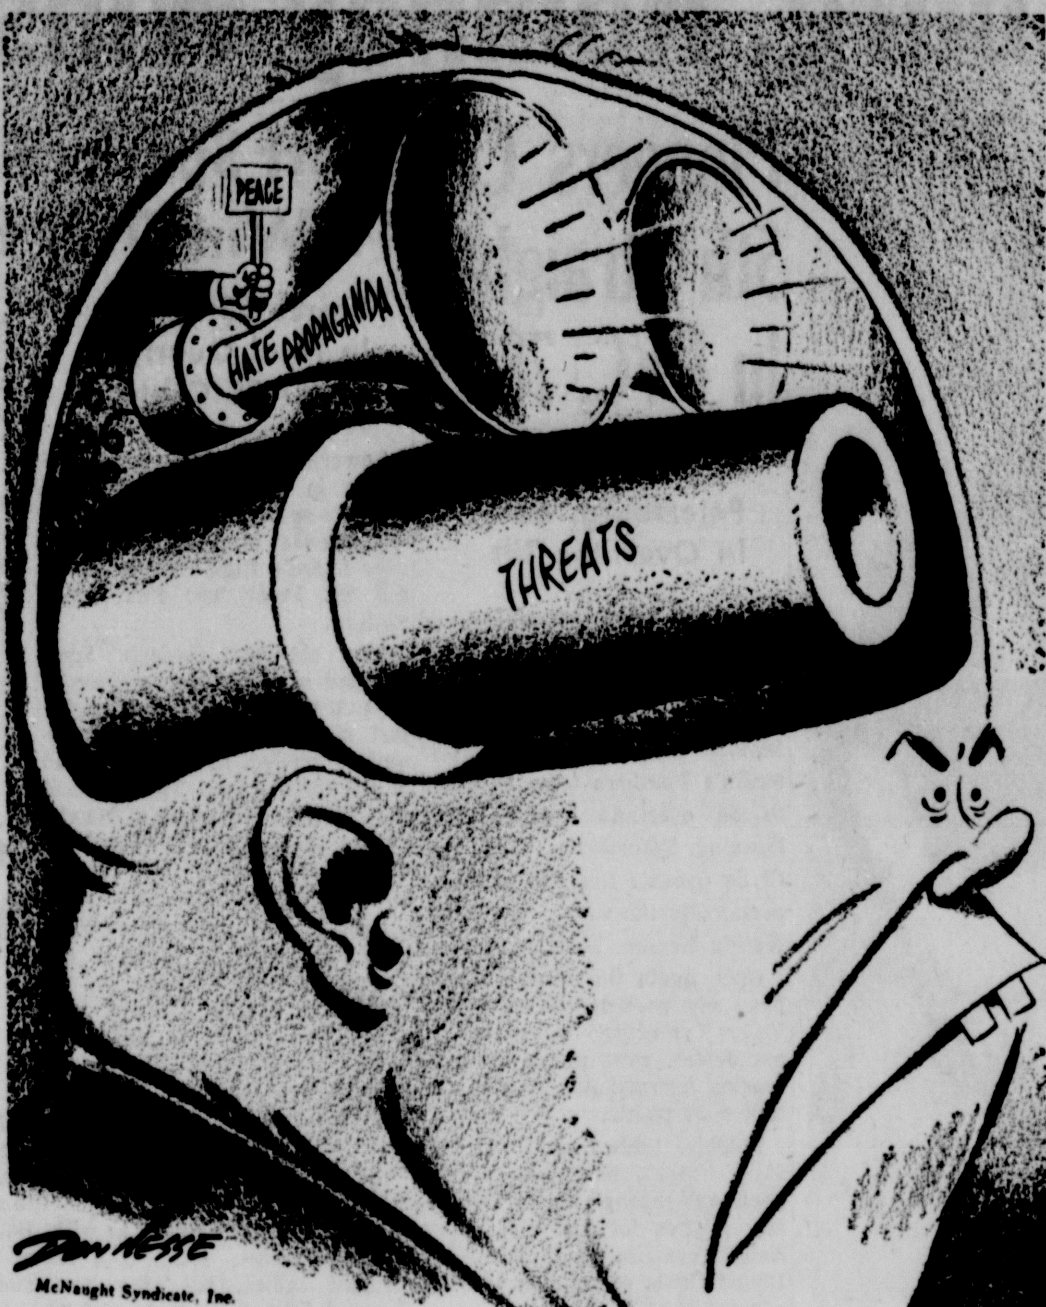

Money that is supported by nothing but the fiat of government has never been and probably never will be acceptable outside the police power of that particular state. For many years, the most solid currency was the British pound sterling to which every other currency in the world was pegged. A pound was worth about $4.85 or roughly $5.00 and trade was conducted with fair knowledge that the price on the transaction was fixed in good money. When Great Britain and then the United States went off the gold standard, the pound fluctuated as all weak currencies do, and now it is fixed at about $2.80 to the pound.

If it remains at that figure or any fixed figure, it will mean that trade will have a tremendous advantage of dealing in a fixed exchange and therefore will know what it is doing. However, the pound may go down a bit to meet the franc. As it has been, business houses doing foreign trade, in any country, were forced to hedge their exchange transactions so that when the time came to pay they had the foreign currency and it was worth as much as when the transaction started. Startling profits and losses were made in exchange transactions, a condition which is never healthy for commerce.

The American dollar will go through some interesting changes during the next year, to be able to meet the more stabilized conditions in Western Europe. It will probably go down in value. We have already outpriced ourselves in world markets and it is for that reason that a large share of American exports are manufactured abroad.

Strange Soviet Mind

The Novel Character Of Khrushchev's Threat

By Joseph Alsop

AVON, Conn.

After a long journey in too many lands, the returning traveler always longs to find everything at home exactly as it always was, from the immemorial worn patch on the back stair carpet to the view, through bare-boughed trees, of the tranquil river.

But although it is mercifully reassuring to find this farm entirely unaltered, it is not at all reassuring to find that the U. S. government is equally unchanged. In the period since this reporter went abroad, a wholly new kind of challenge has been offered which almost angrily demands a wholly new kind of response. Yet no such response is apparent.

The challenge in question is of course Nikita Khrushchev's threat to use his East German puppets to blockade Berlin. Fortunately, the signs suggest that Khrushchev's threat will not be carried out this time, if the Western powers that have guaranteed Berlin stand absolutely firm.

There is no certainty, as yet, that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles will be able to persuade his Western partners to show the needed, perfectly unwavering firmness. There is no certainty, either, that the Kremlin's threat to Berlin will be eventually withdrawn if the Western powers are firm. At best, this new Berlin crisis is a very ugly, chancy business. All the same, one can be reasonably hopeful about it, on the basis of the evidence now available.

But these optimistic calculations about the local, short-range outcome at Berlin in no way soften the radically novel character of Khrushchev's threat. The threat's character is the real challenge that demands a new response. The novelty consists in the fact that for the first time in the 13 past-war years, the Soviets have sketched a move in the world chess game which can only be countered by complete willingness to fight a big, H-bomb war.

In the era since the second World War ended, the Kremlin has indulged in every kind of aggressive maneuver, save one alone. Kremlin-directed aggressions and infiltrations have led to one major and prolonged war with conventional weapons in Korea, and to several lesser and more local shooting matches, ranging from the Indo-Chinese fighting to the recent exchange at Quemoy. Very important political aggressions have also occurred, beginning with the abortive attack on the independence of Iran in 1946, and continuing down to the critically dangerous Communist grab for power that is now going on in Iraq.

But every one of these other Kremlin ventures had one crucially significant feature in common. They were carefully planned to avoid confronting the Western allies with a naked choice between surrendering or getting ready to fight a big war. We have had every other kind of test of will, but never before Berlin have we had this ultimate kind of test of will.

Alaska Will Be Hard To Defend Unless It Gets Missile Bases

By Drew Pearson

ANCHORAGE, Alaska—President Eisenhower, when first demurring against statehood for Alaska, said it would be very difficult to defend Alaska in case of war. And when you travel over its vast and largely uninhabited area—one-fifth the size of the United States—you can readily understand why he was worried.

However, Alaska today becomes the 49th state, an integral part of the United States, and come what may it must be defended. One big question, therefore, is whether it can be defended today any better than when Eisenhower feared for its defense.

The man primarily responsible for the defense of the 49th state is Lt. Gen. Frank A. Armstrong of Nashville, N. C., who made history during World War II when he led the first daylight air raid ever made over Axis territory, and later the first heavy-bomber raid over Germany proper, dramatically chronicled in the book and movie "Twelve O'Clock High."

General Armstrong is a pleasant person with a slight Carolinian drawl who first served in Alaska in the days when military housing consisted of improvised shacks, tents and Quonset huts. According to his own description he is a "sourdough." He likes Alaska, knows Alaska, and has flown up and down mile after mile of its plains, its tundra, and its icy mountain ranges. Armstrong is now commander-in-chief of all Alaskan forces, with the Army, Navy and Air Force efficiently cooperating under him. When I asked him what he thought of President Eisenhower's worry over the defense of Alaska, he was inclined to agree. "All defense is difficult. It wouldn't be easy," he replied. "But you've seen the layout of our troops. You've watched them at work. You know how they are on the alert day and night."

Alaskan Defenses Cut

I had to agree. As a sometimes critical observer, I had seen that morale in the Army, Navy, and Air Force in Alaska is excellent. Troops are in tip-top shape. The caliber of men and officers could not be better.

"Why, if the defense of Alaska is so difficult," I pressed General Armstrong, "was the size of your force in Alaska cut last year?"

This was a mean question, because no military officer is permitted to challenge the budget given him by Washington.

"We took part of an over-all cut," replied General Armstrong diplomatically. "The entire defense budget was reduced and we had to bear our proportionate share."

Nevertheless, the fact remained that with Russian planes concentrated 56 miles across the Bering Sea from Alaska, with 14,000-foot runways constructed in Siberia, and with a new Russian intermediate range ballistic missile base in Siberia, pointing direct at Alaska, the strength of U. S. forces in Alaska was cut. It was cut by the White House, not by the military planners, and it was cut despite the President's own statement that the defense of Alaska would be difficult.

No Alaskan Missiles

There were some other matters which General Armstrong could not discuss, but which I ascertained independently. The most important is the fact that while Russia has already built IRBM bases in Siberia, we have not yet built equivalent missile bases in Alaska. We plan to do so, but U. S. missile production has been so slow and so bogged down in Washington that we won't be ready to ship missiles to Alaska for some months.

This means that Russian IRBM's with a range of around 1,200 miles could easily hit the prime targets of Alaska, while the longer range missiles which Khrushchev boasted to Senator

Humphrey about could hit our big Boeing and Douglas bomber plants on the west coast.

It is no secret that the United States has approximately 30,000 men in Alaska. It is also no secret that the United States has an army of 17 divisions while the Red Army has 175 divisions. By sheer weight of numbers, the Red Army could parachute enough men into Alaska to overwhelm our courageous, highly skilled, relatively meagre force. As President Eisenhower seemed to have in the back of his mind, it would not be too difficult to take the new 49th state.

Men On Guard

On Christmas Day I watched lonely men of the Air Force far from home in the Eskimo village of Unalakleet on the Bering Sea, patiently, efficiently watch their radarscopes for signs of approaching planes. They had been doing this on Christmas Eve, and the day before Christmas Eve and the year before that, every day, every hour, every minute—a long, dull, painstaking, necessary job.

This early warning station and a score of others along the Alaskan-Canadian coasts have been on the alert and will continue to be on the alert. They will not fail to detect any enemy object if and when it approaches. Nothing will get by them.

But if a missile rather than a plane passes their way, the time of light is so fast that the alert will be almost meaningless. There will be no time to warn or prepare.

Meanwhile Russia has the missiles we haven't.

Or when the first missile comes, some of them would be aimed at the Air Force men sitting, watching in these early warning stations. They are helpless to retaliate. They have only one rifle per man—useless in modern warfare. They would be wiped out first. Each early warning station, sitting patiently, efficiently, watching the radarscopes would be one of the first targets—if war comes.

It isn't the fault of the men in Alaska that they would be helpless. It isn't their fault that no missile bases are in Alaska to counter missile against missile. It will be the fault of the procrastinators and red-tape tangles back home.

That is the main problem in the defense of the vast area which becomes the 49th state today.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The job was copy boy. I started on January 2, 1929. The salary was $12 a week. The duties were: (1) to sit on a bench; (2) answer all calls of "Boy!"; (3) take stories from reporters and run the sheets of typewritten paper to the city desk; (4) stay away from office typewriters; (5) get sandwiches and coffee for reporters; (6) be quiet and do not fight with other copy boys.

The newspaper was The News, in New York. The editorial department was on the second floor of a drafty loft building on Park Place. The Woolworth Building was diagonally across the street. Surkin's Restaurant with chased glass windows was next door.

Old Man O'Keefe was my boss. He was a dyspeptic, retired policeman. Among the other copy boys were Red Bera, Arthur Siebelist, Walter Meurer. O'Keefe made us toe his mark. He was fair. And tough.

We had a good gallery of reporters: Forrest Davis, Martin Sommers, John O'Donnell, Alfred Albelli, Tom Cassidy, Red Dolan, Jimmy Cannon, Paul Gallico, Jack Miley, Irene Kuhn, Doris Fleenon, Grace Robinson, Mark Hellinger, and, as editors, Frank Carson, Gene McHugh, Harvey Deuell, Jeff Burke and Colonel Hause.

These names are meaningless to you, but, in the craft, these were good men. They had the respect of their fellows and this, I find, is something that must be earned. As reporters, they had to be able to cover any kind of assignment. The age of specialists came later.

They shone at a time when all men were cynics. It was an age of booze, cheats, graft, gangs and gunfire. Herbert Hoover was in the White House, but Owney Madden was in New York. So were Big Frenchy de Mange and Dutch Schultz and Charlie Sherman. These men had more control of the city than Hoover had of the country.

It was a time of flappers and finale hoppers and Texas Guinan and Prohibition. According to the headlines in our little paper, love nests were being raided almost every day and beer runners were being taken on one-way rides to the Jersey meadows.

A kid on a newspaper needs friends. I had mine. Frank Carson, Day City Editor, gave little assignments to me. Mark Hellinger tried to teach the A B C's of writing to me. Gene McHugh counselled me when I got in trouble with O'Keefe, which was often.

On the first big assignment, in February 1929, I failed. Carson said to run up to 168th St. and Broadway. There had been a public school track meet. Some white boys had warned a colored boy not to run his best in the 60-yard event. The kid had run his best. After he won, the other boys waited in a lot behind the armory with stones. They killed him.

The job was to get the story. I went to the armory. All the way up on the subway I kept mumbling to myself: "Who? What? When? Where? Why?" If I could get the answers to those questions, I would have the story.

At the armory, I was told to go to a police station. At the station house, the lieutenant gave me the name of the dead boy and his address. I went there and met his grieving mother and father. They lived in a damp basement. The father was a minister. They cried so hard that I couldn't understand much of what they said.

When I got back at six p. m., I was allowed to sit at a typewriter. Carson said: "Go to it, kid." Hellinger stood behind me. The first sentence of my lead was about 140 words long. "Cut it, pappy. Cut it," Mr. Hellinger said. I couldn't. I had to tell it all in one breath.

When I finished, I didn't call boy. None would have answered anyway. So I carried my copy to Mr. Carson. He read it from under a green eyeshade. "Nick," he called. "Nick Kenny." Kenny came to the desk.

"Rewrite this in about two pages," he said. "I'll need it in ten minutes so give me some speed. Also call up our district man and get the names of the white boys. I think the kid forgot that."

I sat alongside Nick Kenny, watching his fat fingers do a swift ballet on the keys. I hated his guts. He was writing my story. It wasn't his. It was mine. He looked up and smiled. He asked a few questions. "Okay, kid," he said. "I don't need you anymore."

That night I read the story and folded the paper and went to bed early. I couldn't sleep. That's what it was like 30 years ago...

OUTBURSTS

M. N. writes: My brother had a stroke last year and recovered sufficiently to return to work. Before the attack he was even tempered but now is prone to outbursts of rage. Is this behavior related to the stroke.

REPLY

Yes and no. Some persons develop emotional problems after any illness; it is their reaction to adversity. On the other hand, stroke means that some part of the brain was damaged and it is possible your brother is unable to control his emotions. The problem may be solved with psychiatric help.

OXYGEN FOR HEADACHE

Bulldogs Lose 63-62 Despite Great Finish

62 Personals Are Called And Seven Players Foul Out

MARTINSBURG, W. Va.—Fort Hill High's Sentinels staved off a fourth quarter rally to hand Martinsburg High its first defeat of the season last night in a Cumberland Valley Athletic League battle on the Bulldogs' floor by the score of 63-62.

Fort Hill, which led at the close of the third quarter, 53-38, had its hands full in the last stanza while the losers were pouring in 24 points to the Sentinels' 10. Martinsburg opened its season Tuesday night with a come-from-behind, 67-64 triumph over Allegany's Campers in another league engagement.

The Red Raiders, whose CVAL mark is now 3-1, were paced in point production by a quartet composed of Bill Sheetz, Charles Robinson, Dave Baldwin and LeRoy Henry. These four accounted for 57 of the victors' share with Baldwin's 16 points showing the way.

Pivotalman Sid Pitzer tossed in 21 points in a losing cause with guard Jerry Stuckey assisting with 10.

Sixty-two personal fouls were detected by referees with seven players leaving the game by that route. Three Hilltoppers, Sheetz, Robinson and Lewis were banished from the winners' quint while Donnie Schell, B. B. Butts, Stuckey and Olen Hayes departed for Martinsburg.

Fort Hill, in registering its fifth decision of the campaign against a single loss—to North Hagerstown—was outscored in field goals, 22-20, but sank 23 of 47 foul tosses to the Bulldogs' 18-37 performance. Boxscore:

Devaney Gets Interview For Maryland Post

Cowboys' Coach Is Interested In Job

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Wyoming football Coach Bob Devaney spent four hours Friday talking with University of Maryland officials about the vacancy in the Terps coaching job here.

Devaney called them "exploratory" talks and said he is "interested" in the job although it "was not offered to me."

"I got the impression they were going to wait until after the NCAA convention in Cincinnati January 7," Devaney said.

Devaney, 43-year-old graduate of Alma College in Michigan, was invited here for today's talks. He said he spent two hours with Athletic Director Bill Cobey and two more hours with University President Wilson H. Elkins.

The Maryland coaching position has been vacant since last month when university officials refused to renew Tommy Norton's contract.

Mont, former assistant to Jim Tatum, now head coach at North Carolina, took over the top football job at Maryland three years ago. His team compiled a 4-6 record this past season. His three-year record was 11-18-1.

White Sox Sale To Veeck Near

CHICAGO (AP)—Sale of controlling interest in the Chicago White Sox to baseball's executive-in-motion, Bill Veeck, seemingly only lacked official confirmation Friday.

Delay in announcement of the sale, it appeared, was caused by an effort by Veeck's syndicate to buy out the minority holdings of Chuck Comiskey, Sox vice president, or achieve a meeting of minds with Chuck on club operations.

The Chicago Tribune said in Friday's editions it had learned Mrs. Dorothy Comiskey Rigney, Chuck's sister, already has sold the 3,235 shares she controls to Veeck. Chuck owns or controls 2,755 shares, the remainder of the club holdings.

Although spokesmen for Mrs. Rigney denied completion of the sale and contended negotiations still are in progress, an informed source said "It's all cut and dried."

Coast Overmatched? Iowa's Rout Of California Brings Hint Of Withdrawal

Big Ten Team Cops Twelfth Rose Bowl Game In 13 Years

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"Coast overmatched—time to withdraw."

This headline summed up the sentiments of some West Coast football followers Friday in the wake of Iowa's 38-12 slaughter of California in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day.

It was the 12th time in 13 years that the Big Ten team defeated the Pacific Coast Conference representative in the annual classic.

"We should have had sense enough to ask for a divorce from this one-sided marriage way back (in 1946)—as the only interruption in a series of defeats by the Big Ten came in 1953, when Southern California blanked Wisconsin, 7-0," wrote Sports Editor George T. Davis of the Herald-Express. He added:

"If the late, but not lamented, Pacific Coast Conference hadn't already been dissolved, it wouldn't take much more of yesterday's treatment to accomplish this purpose."

Sports Editor Sid Ziff of the Mirror-News wrote: "The defeat shoved the coast another notch down in prestige. We don't have any left, as a matter of fact."

Most sports writers thought the score didn't reflect Iowa's complete mastery. The Times' Dick Hyland said:

"Picture, if you will, a Fred Astaire tap dancing on the same stage with a rival wearing fishing boots. One is light, graceful, certain in his movements; the other is sincere but by comparison a clumsy competitor."

Even California's star player, quarterback Joe Kapp, wanted no reminders of the fray. While in the showers Thursday, a man handed him a piece of wood.

"What's that?" Kapp asked. "A piece of the goal posts."

"Phooey," said Kapp. "That's one souvenir I don't want."

Wants Series Continued Despite caustic comments on the game, the Mirror-News' Ziff favored continued Big Ten visits. He wrote:

"The status of the contestants in the Rose Bowl game is now in doubt because the Pacific Coast Conference has been dissolved. Maybe the Big Ten won't want to continue just against a team drawn from the new group consisting of USC, UCLA, Cal and Washington."

"It is to be hoped they don't withdraw."

"Like Gen. Grant, we want to fight 'em out on this line until we finally do start beating them."

DUBLIN (AP)—Polly Fairclough, 77, who billed herself as the "woman boxing champion of the world," died Friday after a long illness.

Polly often boxed with 40 men challengers a day when she toured with a British circus. She sparred with many champions including Jack Johnson, during her pre-World War I heyday.

Polly always claimed her bouts were something more than stunts. She reached her peak as a strong woman 45 years ago when she lifted a pony with her teeth.

Matson and Layne Are Disqualified For Pro Bowl Game

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Quarterback Bobby Layne and fullback Ollie Matson were removed from the East squad for the Pro Bowl game Friday and replacements named because the two stars were played in the Hula Bowl in Honolulu Sunday.

The only announcement here was that the two gridderers were replaced because they had failed to check in at the East hotel for the game.

Quarterback Eddie LeBaron of Washington and fullback Tommy McDonald of Philadelphia were named to replace the two.

Commissioner Bert Bell has held a clear participation in the Pro Bowl—scheduled here Jan. 11—is expected of league players if they are selected. While pros taking part in the Hula Bowl could make it here in time for the pro game, the play-off stars were alerted in advance they could not play in both.

Pioneers Cop 5th Straight In PVC, 78-69

Franklin Defeats Petersburg, 64-59, In Overtime Tilt

Franklin High's Panthers and the Pioneers of Romney High kept rolling on their undefeated ways in the Potomac Valley Conference last night. Coach Gus Smith's Panthers were extended to an overtime stanza before downing Petersburg, 64-59, and Clyde Green's Romney quint led practically the whole way in defeating Keyser, 78-69, at Keyser.

Once again the Pioneers, who have now recorded five Potomac Valley Conference victories without defeat, were paced by high-scoring forward Bill Maphis who tallied 33 points.

Maphis, tabbed early for all-state honors, bucketed 12 field goals and meshed nine of 14 penalty pitches for his total. Steve Keister contributed 17 points and Donne Davis chipped in with 11.

John Shelton's Tornadoes, now owning a 2-1 conference tab and a 4-2 overall mark, were led by Ronald Smith who caged 21 points. Bill Boor, Bob Keller and Gary Keedy scored 13, 12 and 13 points, respectively.

The win was the sixth in a row for Romney without a defeat.

At Franklin the Panthers scored nine points in an overtime period against Petersburg's four as the Smithmen kept their record of 7-0 unblemished. The count was knotted 55-all at the end of the regulation game which had Franklin trailing after all except the first quarter when it led, 16-14.

Bill Wimer and Rich Bennett shared 36 points and Jack Simon tossed in 15 for the winners, who are 3-0 in the PVC. Billy Reynolds, Dave Koontz and Lewis Alt, with 18, 11 and 13 markers, paced the losers.

Petersburg's loop record is now set at 2-3.

In the preliminary game Franklin's freshman team defeated Keyser Junior High, 43-26.

Moorefield's Yellow Jackets evened their conference register at 2-2 and added to the woes of Mathias High by dealing the hosting Eagles their eighth loss without a win by the score of 68-63.

After holding a 37-35 halftime lead, Mathias saw its lead dwindle in the third period as the Jackets enjoyed a 56-33 lead after that stanza.

Forward Glen Bensenhaver sparked the winners' attack with 12 field goals and three foul tosses for 27 points. Jimmy Paugh contributed 18 and Marlin Evans 11.

Forrest Mathias starred for the losers by sinking 29 tallies on a dozen two-pointers and five of nine tosses from the charity stripe.

Idle Piedmont remained the only undefeated quint in the PVC with a 3-0 record.

Scott Sparks Ridgeley To Win Over Explorers

Scores 15 Points In Final Quarter Of 47-38 Contest

Towering Bill Scott scored 15 points in the last quarter last night to spark the Ridgeley High Blackhawks to a 47-38 triumph over LaSalle High's Explorers at the S.S. Peter and Paul gymnasium.

The six-foot, six-inch Scott dumped in five baskets and meshed five of six foul tosses in the last stanza after the West Virginians trailed, 29-24, at the end of the third frame. The outburst for Tommy O'Connor's Hawks in the final eight minutes was a point shy of their total for the entire first three quarters.

LaSalle, which now shows a 2-6 mark, held the upperhand at the quarter posts, 7-3, 16-15, and 29-24, before Scott's personal barrage. The Explorers led until Scott's bucket gave Ridgeley a 30-29 lead in the last period. A foul shot by Jack Bahen tied the count at 30-30 before Scott's performance sent Ridgeley surging to the top.

Ternent pulled LaSalle to within three points, 41-38, with six straight tallies, but then Scott dumped five of six fouls and 6-8 Mike Detrick, making his first start of the season, sank another to set the final score at 47-38.

In all Scott tallied for 26 of the winners' accounts. Ternent, with 11 markers, led LaSalle. Mackert left the game via personal foul route with 2:10 to go in the contest.

The win was the third for Ridgeley and curtailed a four-game losing streak for the West Virginians.

The score was tied three times at 13-16, 30-30, before Ridgeley went on top for good. Box scores:

County Farm Plot Sale Is Possible

At the suggestion of Commissioner William A. Wilson, the Allegany County Board of Commissioners has instructed Leslie J. Clark, board attorney, to check into the possibility of selling a portion of the County Farm property for a residential area.

The area involved is in the rear of the development on Holland Street which was sold to veterans about ten years ago after being laid out in lots. This was made possible by passage of legislation by the General Assembly.

It is believed that in the event such a project is approved, the county would have to construct a street or roadway into the development area.

Mr. Wilson's plan would provide a section suitable for housing units and also place a large number of properties on the tax books. The County Farm property is not used as extensively as it was years ago when it was farmed to provide foodstuffs for the County Home and Sylvan Retreat.

Commissioner John T. Mason seconded the motion in which Commissioner John J. Rowan also concurred.

The county board has also passed an order that all county cars obtain their gasoline from pumps at the garage on Franklin Street. Gasoline will be purchased in bulk at wholesale prices.

The board has also decided to follow the recommendations of Fire Chief Virgil Parker in connection with safeguards in the basement of the Court House. At present the work of housecleaning of various rooms in the basement will be done. Later installation of fire-proof doors on the boiler room will be done.

On The Line by Bob Considine

NEW YORK—If one were asked to choose the prime bit of bad public relations for 1958 the leather medal would have to be awarded Notre Dame University.

For years this fine South Bend, Ind., school has made an uphill fight to gain the recognition it deserves as an institution of learning. It required its athletes to maintain a 7.0 average while the rest of its scholars could get by with 7.0. It made notable strides in research in germ-free biology and other worthy fields. It seemed embarrassed at times by the skill of its football team; fearful that it would attract more attention for that phase of student life than for more esteemed fields.

Then, virtually on the eve of Christmas, it fired Terry Brennan, who made the mistake of taking the new look, educationally, for granted. His team this season won just over half of its games, playing the toughest schedule in the land. Brennan has four children, had been hailed not long ago by the enterprising, scholarly president of the university, Father Ted Hesburgh, and epitomized the type of young man and leader you'd want your son to play for. So he was bounced.

It seems to me it's just as well for the affection in which Notre Dame is held in New York by the subway alumni that the announcement came during the New York newspaper strike. The alienation of affections would have taken colossal proportions.

Notre Dame alumni here in were, by and large, shocked by the peremptory action. True, there is always a knot of old grads who won't be pacified unless the coach wins every game handily (and then attends all their pet charity banquets, gratis). Notre Dame has its share of these incorrigible birdbrains, compounded by a long-time scattering of priests and professors who honestly believe they know as much about football as they do about their own chosen professions.

The firing of Brennan has made the once great Notre Dame coaching job a post which any top man would shun like a plague. It must have made many sincere rooters wonder about the sincerity of the determined drive by school authorities to highlight the academic standing of the old school.

Thomas Alva Edison invented the phonograph in 1877. Edison was a dreamer, but his wildest dream in technicolor could not have taken in the scope of today's record industry.

More than a quarter of a billion dollars worth of records will be bought this year, plus half a billion dollars worth of machines to play them.

Millions of dollars are lost in addition to fortunes made. More than 800 companies operated last year, some of them making only a single record before going bust. Only 39 out of every 1,000 discs make money. One in one thousand will hit the million mark.

No man can plot a winner in advance, nor is there any true way of divining the best kind of background a record tycoon should have. Marty Craft of MGM-Metro-Gum records, one of the bigger firms, made the selection of "Purple People Eater," by Sheb Wooley. Remember that name — Marty Craft. That boy's going far. I've submitted his name to the Air Force as the passenger on the first rocket to Pluto.

B&O Probing Deraiment Near Kingwood

KINGWOOD, W. Va. (UPI)—Baltimore & Ohio Railroad officials Friday were investigating the deraiment of 33 cars of a long west-bound freight train about 13 miles southwest of here.

The accident occurred New Year's day along tracks adjacent to W. Va. 92 near Newburg, Preston County. There were no injuries reported as a result of the wreck, reportedly caused by a broken rail.

Preston County Deputy Sheriff L. L. Holsinger said two diesel engines also left the tracks, but only one overturned. About a half dozen box cars went part way down a 45-foot embankment and were badly damaged, he said.

Some of the cars were empty, but others had cargo, including one with a shipment of scotch whisky. The accident occurred on a slight curve.

Newburg mortician Art Sinclair, suffered a heart attack upon arriving on the scene. However, he was reported in satisfactory condition Friday.

Secrets Of Charm by John Robert Powers

Three Charms Men Talk About

What do men single out to praise in a woman they find charming? Not as often as you may think, merely her surface charms. Listen when they make flattering remarks and see. Look behind the words you hear—they may be said lightly, but indicate a much deeper approval, of much deeper qualities than they seem to express.

I think you may hear something about adaptability. Men admire women who do a graceful job of adapting to any situation. The teenager may call his girl a good sport, the husband may say that his wife is a wonder at switching from aprons to golf clothes to party dresses, to please him. An employer may marvel at the sparkling readiness of his employee for the many occasions that arise in business.

And something might be said about tact. Young men appreciate feminine soothing of awkwardness, especially when it's done so easily that they needn't seem to notice. Their elders, too, value such talent, and also the steady hand with which a woman guides the family's public relations, in the neighborhood, with friends and acquaintances, and maneuvers.

AFL-CIO Council Outlines State Legislative Plan

$1 Minimum Wage Will Be Requested

The Western Maryland Central Labor Council, AFL-CIO, last night asked Allegany County legislators to support a broad legislative program in the General Assembly which opens next Wednesday in Annapolis.

It includes proposals for major changes in workmen's compensation, a $1 minimum wage, prevailing wages on state contracts, 39 weeks of unemployment benefits, civil rights and the adoption of a graduated income tax to finance the rising cost of state government.

Stanley Zorick, a member of Local 26, Rubber Workers Union, served as spokesman for the council, which represents some 22 labor unions of the county.

Also present at the legislative hearing were F. Patrick Allen, council president; Joseph V. Burke, area COPE director; Roy Craze, representing Local 1874, Textile Workers Union, and Charles Carey of Local 122-C, Sheet Metal Workers.

The proposals were presented before Delegates Fred B. Driscoll, Lester B. Reed, William Walsh and Thomas F. Conlon Jr., and State Senator Charles M. See.

Seek 8 Changes

Del. Driscoll, delegation chairman, urged that details of the program be presented to the legislators as soon as possible in the session.

Eight changes in the Maryland Workmen's Compensation law were asked. They are designed to bring benefits up to a level near the income brackets of the injured worker.

For example, the AFL-CIO program proposes that in cases of permanent disability, two-thirds of a worker's salary be paid for life, but not less than $18 a week unless his pay is less. In that case, full wages would be paid. The present state maximum is $20,000.

Want Wage Floor

The Unemployment Compensation law also calls for the development of a rehabilitation program by insurance companies and industry and would extend the time for filing a claim from 18 months to three years.

Del. Driscoll pointed out that the rehabilitation plan might conflict with the present state program. The AFL-CIO also seeks to make permanent the present extension of 13 weeks of unemployment compensation, for a total of 39, to which unemployed would be entitled in each benefit year.

It also asks that a labor dispute be defined as a strike or work stoppage and that workers laid off before a strike be eligible for unemployment benefits.

The adoption of a state minimum wage law of $1 an hour was also proposed. There is no present state minimum.

A bill calling for a prevailing rate on wage on all state contracts will be introduced, Mr. Zorick said.

Seek Civil Rights

Two civil rights bills will be introduced. One will deal with equal employment opportunities regardless of race, creed, color or national origin, and the other would outlaw discrimination in public places and accommodations.

The AFL-CIO will propose that the Legislature set up committees to recommend a program to correct faulty weight and measure practices and a study committee on health and sanitation.

A state graduated income tax, Mr. Zorick said, will be introduced to meet the increasing costs of state services.

Similar tax structures, based on ability to pay, have been adopted by 27 states and the District of Columbia, the labor delegates said.

Mr. Zorick said the plan calls for a base tax of 2 per cent, less deductions, from zero to $5,000; three per cent from $5,001 to $10,000; four per cent from $10,001 to $15,000 and five per cent over $15,000.

The formula, the labor delegation said, should bring in enough money so that the following year the sales tax could be dropped.

Mr. Burke asked casually whether any of the Allegany County legislators favored a "right to work" bill. The query brought a laugh from the men who in the past have opposed such legislation.

The National Right to Work Committee, Mr. Allen said, has selected Maryland for a trial of the plan this year.

Income Tax Assistance For W.Va. Residents

On motion of Commissioner John T. Mason, William G. Barger, Civil Defense director, was authorized to use an old barn at Sylvan Retreat for storage of Civil Defense equipment.

Wednesday holidays in 1959 are Maryland Day, March 25, and Veterans Day, November 11. Those on Thursday besides the just-passed New Year's Day are Lincoln's birthday, February 12, and Thanksgiving Day, November 26.

After signing the statement last night, Miller was taken to the city jail and will be transferred to today to Allegany County jail.

Windsor Hotel Barber Shop Moves Jan. 8

Today is the last day for operation of the Windsor Hotel Barber Shop at its familiar location at Baltimore and George streets, according to David L. Miller, who has operated the shop since about 1925.

The long-established shop will begin operations at 107 South George Street next Thursday, January 8.

Mr. Miller figures there has been a barber shop in the Windsor Hotel ever since the hotel began operations in 1842, some 116 years ago. The shop operator began work there in 1920 himself and has been told by old-time barbers that there has been a shop in that same specific location for about 65 years.

The new location for the Windsor Hotel Shop was formerly the Kingdom Hall of the Jehovah Witnesses.

WILLIAM B. ORNDORFF

W. B. Orndorff Named County Tax Collector

Four-Year Term Begins April 7

William B. Orndorff, 38, of 106 Humbird Street, will become the first county-wide tax collector for Allegany County effective April 7 as a result of his unanimous selection yesterday by the Board of County Commissioners.

A central tax office for the entire county was created by Chapter 833, passed as House Bill 936, by the 1957 General Assembly in Annapolis.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Orndorff said that deputy collectors will be appointed later by the county commissioners.

Formerly Three

Before passage of Chapter 833, there were three tax collection districts in Allegany County each with a different collector.

Chapter 833 provides that the county tax collector shall be appointed by the county commissioners at the first meeting in January 1959 for a four-year term starting the first Tuesday in April. Every four years from now on a tax collector will be appointed by the county commissioners at the first meeting in January.

This 1957 act of the General Assembly does not provide for deputy tax collectors as such. It simply states that the county commissioners shall appoint the clerical personnel necessary to operate the central tax office.

Chapter 833 also specifies that the tax collector or someone from his office shall sit in each of seven county communities outside Cumberland for at least four days each, annually during the months of June, July and August when a discount is allowed for payment of county taxes. These communities are Frostburg, Midland, Lonaconing, Barton, Westernport, Mt. Savage and Flintstone.

Committee Endorsed

Mr. Orndorff, who will receive $7,500 a year in his new job, was endorsed for the position by the entire County Democratic State Central Committee at a meeting November 28 in the home of Edward J. Ryan, Frostburg.

Although he concurred in the election of Mr. Orndorff, Commissioner John J. Rowan criticized the procedure of the Democratic State Central Committee in handling the matter. He emphasized that his remarks were not meant as a reflection upon Mr. Orndorff and his qualifications for the job.

"We are the elected officers of the county and the responsibility of selecting persons for various posts is ours and I believe they should be thoroughly discussed by the State Central Committee with the board," Mr. Rowan declared. "I don't like the procedure which has been followed," he added.

Mr. Orndorff, a native of Cumberland, is a graduate of Fort Hill High School where he was prominent in athletics. He has been an active worker in the Democratic party for many years, has held office in the Allegany County Young Democrats and was elected state treasurer of the Maryland Young Democrats at the 1958 convention.

Active In Civic Affairs

He is secretary of the Cumberland Board of Zoning Appeals, the Allegany County Committee of the Governor's Committee to Promote the Employment of the Handicapped, secretary of the Cumberland Rocking Chair Softball League, active in Boy Scout work and is institutional representative of Boy Scout Troop 92, a member of B.P.O. Elks Lodge 63, Henry Hart Post 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, South Cumberland Businessmen's Association and a representative of Thomas Post Playground Association. He is a member of Emmanuel Methodist Church.

He is employed as a salesman for the Wilson Hardware Company, North Mechanic Street and was formerly employed as an assistant veterans employment representative with the Maryland Department of Employment Security.

Mr. Orndorff is married to the former Evelyn K. Irons and they have a son, William E. Orndorff, 13, a student at Fort Hill High School.

Marine To Graduate

Marine Private Gene F. Wilt, son of Raleigh C. Wilt, 605 Columbia Avenue, is scheduled to graduate tomorrow from an intensive five-week advanced combat training course at Camp Lejeune, N.C.

Estel C. Kelley Resigns From Liquor Board

Edward J. Ryan Is In Line For Post

Estel C. Kelley, local attorney, has resigned as a member of the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverages License Commissioners.

Mr. Kelley was elected to a four-year term in the House of Delegates on November 4 and was required to resign from the liquor board before he could qualify as a member of the House of Delegates.

The 1959 General Assembly will begin its 90-day session in Annapolis on Wednesday.

Submits Resignation

Mr. Kelley submitted his liquor board resignation, effective December 31, at midnight, in a letter mailed to Governor McKeldin Wednesday morning.

Mr. Kelley resigned from the House of Delegates in the spring of 1957 to accept a six-year appointment on the Board of Alcoholic Beverages License Commissioners running until the first Monday in May 1963.

Under the terms of Chapter 176 of the 1953 Acts of the General Assembly, which was passed as Senate Bill 276, two members of the Board of Alcoholic Beverages License Commissioners must be members of that political party which at the last preceding general election in Allegany County polled the greatest number of votes in the aggregate for the several offices of county commissioners.

Ryan Recommended

Because of the Democrats' upset victory last month in which Democrats John T. Mason and John J. Rowan were elected county commissioners, it now appears that a Democrat will be appointed to fill Mr. Kelley's position. He is a Republican.

The Allegany County Democratic State Central Committee has recommended the appointment of Edward J. Ryan, Cumberland and Frostburg attorney, to the liquor board. Presumably, he will be appointed either by Governor McKeldin or Governor-elect J. Millard Tawes, who will be inaugurated Wednesday, January 14. There is no particular urgency in filling the position. After January 14, the next meeting of the liquor board will be Tuesday, January 20.

Other members of the liquor board are Stanley Hamilton, Republican, whose term expires the first Monday in May 1959, and Howard Vandegrift, Democrat, whose term continues until May 1961.

Tetany Talks Due Tuesday

Garrett County beef producers are being urged to attend a meeting in the vocational agriculture classroom of Southern High School in Oakland at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday to discuss what is going to be done from now on regarding tetany.

Tetany is a morbid state resembling tetanus, characterized by intermittent tonic muscular spasms, chiefly in the extremities.

A serious outbreak of tetany occurred in Garrett County in 1957, according to County Agent James A. McHenry. I said that in 1957 more than 300 brood cows which were due to calve were lost.

During this outbreak, a research team from the University of Maryland composed of representatives of the various departments and the Maryland Livestock Sanitary Service visited Garrett County to collect data.

Certain information has been compiled and Dr. L. C. Haut, director of the Agricultural Experiment Station at College Park, has arranged for three College Park representatives to present their findings at the Southern High School meeting January 6.
